Auspicious

I sometimes feel there are no coincidences. Yesterday was one of them. All this fell on the same day.

- We launched our Virtual Retreats with Gateway & Conscious Presence
- We marched over the 100,000 users of Monroe free meditations
- It was the summer solstice

I feel like the divine plan for the Monroe Institute is underway and working smoothly.

Gateway Virtual Retreat #1

Carol Monroe is in the class and writes, "GV virtual is going well. A few technical glitches resolved and all is good. We span 17 time zones in this group! Finland to Australia, North and South America. Pretty Amazing!"

Bear Sighting

The sun had set. It was full dark. Anne and I were having a glass of wine on the porch. I'd just finished grilling a leg of lamb with this amazing 11 herb marinade.
"Scott, do you hear anything?"
Noooooo. Why?
"I think something is on the porch." Anne turn around in her chair and let's out this squeak. "beaaar!"
I look, but there was no moon. I'm looking for a black bear in a sea of blackness. I think is see a streak of something. But, who knows. Anne, what did you see?
"It was a juvenile bear standing on its hind legs sniffing the grill. I must of scared it."
Fine by me!
(Our grill is about 10 feet from where we are sitting…just sayin')

Hope you all had some fine sightings.
See you Monday,
Scott
